

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Anchor BCI Equity Fund is a general equity portfolio that seeks to sustain high long-term capital growth.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

The portfolio is constructed from bottom-up, fundamental research with an investment philosophy that favours quality stocks with superior returns on capital, cash flows and pricing power. While acceptable valuation is an important component of the stock-selection process, the fund's style is not "value" – investments will be made in premium-rated stocks where the growth outlook and quality profile warrants it. The fund will also own shares that are often not well researched, yet offer exceptional valuation-driven opportunities. The quality of companies included is judged by rates of earnings growth, return on capital employed, cash conversion and stability of margins. The portfolio may, from time to time, invest in listed and unlisted financial instruments. The manager may include the following unlisted financial instruments: forward currency, interest rate and exchange-rate swap transactions for efficient portfolio management purposes. The portfolio's equity exposure will always exceed 80% of the portfolio's net asset value.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY AT 31 OCT 2017

Domestically, the month was dominated by confirmation of South Africa's dire fiscal situation in the form of the medium term budget policy statement from Finance Minister Malusi Gigaba. While the current fiscal metrics should not come as a major surprise, it was the lack of any coherent plan and the seeming abandoning of a fiscal consolidation path which shocked the markets. Both the rand and bond markets sold off, with the currency losing 4% during the month. It was within this context, as well as strong global markets (MSCI World +1.9%), that local indices performed so strongly – the SWIX delivered a 6.5% return for October. Importantly, Naspers rose 18% during the month and accounted for over half of the return from the market. The fund delivered a return of 5.8% for October, ahead of the peer average, and it has now delivered a cumulative return of more than 100% since the fund's inception in April 2013.

RISK PROFILE: HIGH

Low	Mod-Low	Mod	Mod-High	High
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> This portfolio has a higher exposure to equities than any other risk profiled portfolio and therefore tend to carry higher volatility due to high exposure to equity markets. Expected potential long term returns are high, but the risk of potential capital losses is high as well, especially over shorter periods. Where the asset allocation contained in this MDD reflect offshore exposure, the portfolio is exposed to currency risks Therefore, it is suitable for long term investment horizons.

HIGH / LOW MONTHS BY YEAR

Dates	2014	2015	2016	2017
High	5.6%	7.7%	4.9%	5.8%
Low	-0.3%	-2.2%	-5.6%	-3.3%

The key positive contributors to performance during the month, relative to benchmark, were PPC, Grindrod and Astoria Investments Limited (cumulative 0.85% contribution to performance), as well as Diversified Miners. Our direct-offshore holdings also contributed meaningfully to performance (1.2%), with this component of the fund gaining ~4% in US dollar terms. Key gainers offshore were Apple, Hastings, Facebook, Priceline, Admiral Group and Beacon Roofing Supply. The key detractors from relative performance included an underweight position in Naspers (-1.6% to performance) and no weighting in platinum shares (-0.2% deduction). During the month, we moderated our holdings in Banks on the back of our belief that the probability of South Africa's sovereign credit rating being downgraded has increased. Should this be met with an exit from the Citigroup WGBI, forced selling of SA bonds could cause yields to spike above 10%. We believe this scenario is not fully priced into Banks' valuations and, accordingly, we have moved to an underweight position.

MARKET COMMENTARY

US Companies started reporting 3Q17 earnings in October, with 60% of S&P 500 companies reporting by month-end. Earnings were about 5% ahead of expectations for the companies reporting - they delivered c. 8% of earnings growth, in aggregate. Tech companies led the way with the FAANG companies (Facebook, Apple, Amazon, Netflix and Google) and Microsoft contributing more than half of the S&P 500 returns in October (and 90% of the NASDAQ's October returns). Amazon, Microsoft, Netflix and Google all reported stellar 3Q17 earnings, leaving their shares up 15%, 12%, 8% and 6%, respectively, for the month. Despite Apple not yet releasing its results, it was up 10% in the month on reports that orders for its new iPhone X were extremely strong. Oil continued to grind higher, breaching $60/bbl late in the month (for the first time since mid-2015). Interest rates also pushed higher in the month as market participants speculated on who would be chairing the US Federal Reserve (Fed) next year, with concerns that they might not be as accommodative as the current Fed Chair, Janet Yellen, has been. Higher US rates also pushed the dollar higher. US investment-grade credit spreads dropped below 1% in October, reaching levels not seen since before the 2008 global financial crisis, but this was offset by rising interest rates that left most global bond indices flat for the month.

Japan was comfortably the leading global equity market, with the Nikkei Index up over 8% in the month. Prime Minister Shinzo Abe successfully negotiated another general election, winning his fourth term at the helm in Japan and comfortably maintaining his supermajority in congress. The victory should allow him to ensure that loose monetary conditions remain and that structural reforms are accelerated, both of which seem to be having some success in spurring the Japanese economy back to life. In emerging markets, the BRICs lead switched hands again as last month's winners (Brazil and Russia) were comfortably eclipsed by India and China, whose equity indices were both up over 5% in October. Indian markets found some support from their large concentration of oil companies and some corporate activity in the telecom sector. In Europe, the ECB announced during the month that it would start tapering its quantitative easing (QE) programme next year, halving the amount of bonds it buys each month to EUR30bn/month from January 2018, but maintaining the buying until at least September and probably beyond that. This was better than the markets had been hoping for, expectations were that the bond buying would end much sooner and European bonds rallied on the announcement, pushing the euro lower against most currencies. Late in October, the US released 3Q17 GDP growth of 3% (higher than the 2.6% expected by economists), largely shrugging off the impact of hurricanes during the quarter.
