► Commentary for the Quarter ended 30 June 2018

Performance

For the quarter, the fund returned 7.0% vs. the JSE Swix 2.1%. On a 12 month basis, the fund has outperformed, returning 12.6% vs. the JSE Swix's 11.8%.

Macro

The quarter has been dominated by rising US short rates and trade war concerns. Despite these issues, US earnings continue to rise. The biggest losers from rate increases have been Emerging Markets. This sell-off has caused the Rand to lose 13.7% against the USD and the 10-year SA Government Bond Yield to rise from 7.9% to 8.7% over the quarter. Besides general EM weakness, SA investors have complained about the slow pace of both economic and policy improvement since Zuma's ousting. However, it is worthwhile remembering that as recently as November, nobody believed it was possible that Zuma could resign. While structural issues will take time to be resolved, we are moving in the right direction.

Domestic Equity

We expect soft earnings out of domestic companies until the fourth quarter of 2018 – until then, we are maintaining our existing weighting in Domestic Cyclical. Our underweight positions in both Domestic Cyclical and Telcos added to performance. However, the underweight in Global Cyclical detracted from performance.

Specific stock performers were Atlantic Leaf Properties (+13% QTD) and Anglo American (+11% QTD) – both of which were overweight positions relative to the JSE Swix. We continue to have no exposure to gold, platinum and MTN, which added to performance. Changes over the quarter included buying Richemont, decreasing our position in Rand Merchant Investments, and selling out of Shoprite Holdings – effectively removing any domestic defensive exposure.

Global Equity

Global exposure makes up 32% of the total portfolio. This portion was the largest contributor to performance, returning 20.4% in ZAR (3.9% in USD vs. the MSCI World Index's 1.8% ) – predominantly due the strengthening US Dollar and general weakness across Emerging Markets.

Top performing global holdings were Microsoft Corp. (13.3% QTD) and the Nasdaq 100 ETF (9.3% QTD).
