FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY AT 29 FEB 2024

In various parts of the world, headline inflation is gradually declining, yet core inflation persists at high levels. US economic indicators show a robust US economy supported by strong consumer spending and a relatively tight labour market. The persistence of high inflation and ongoing economic strength will likely postpone the start of interest rate cuts. Throughout February, the market has aggressively repriced interest rate expectations as investors expressed doubts about how much the Fed might ease rates in 2024. At the end of January, the derivatives market had priced in a 60% probability of a 25-bp cut to the Fed funds rate at its May meeting. However, by the end of February, this probability had decreased to approximately 25%. Consequently, benchmark 10-year yields across major economies rose over the month, with US treasuries, UK gilt yields, and German bund yields increasing by 31 bps, 33 bps, and 25 bps, respectively. Locally, South Africa (SA) government bonds (SAGBs) saw a bear-flattening yield curve over the month, with the R186, R2037, and R2053 bond yields rising by 26 bps, 23 bps, and 10 bps, respectively. Regarding fiscal policy, the dominant headline in SA during February was the 2024 National Budget. The minister of finance announced that the National Treasury (NT) would tap into the Gold and Foreign Exchange Contingency Reserve Account (GFECRA) to ease debt costs, which is intended to stabilise the debt-to-GDP ratio in 2025/2026 compared to previous estimates. To continue taking advantage of high-interest rates while maintaining low duration, more than 90% of the portfolio consists of floating-rate notes (FRNs). To minimise credit risk, approximately 75% of the portfolio is invested in debt instruments with AAA and AA credit ratings. The primary objective of this fund remains capital preservation while delivering income returns that exceed those offered by money market portfolios.
